Bomb Blasts Rock Buildings in Three Cities

By United Press International

Bombs exploded in a half-hour period early today at the State Department in Washington, the world's tallest building in Chicago, the United States Mission to the United Nations in New York and at several banks in New York and Chicago.

There were no injuries in the series of blasts in the three cities and damage at the nine nearly empty bombing sites was mostly confined to broken glass.

The Associated Press in New York reported receiving two telephone calls from a somewhat incoherent woman who said the New York blasts were the responsibility of the Puerto Rican Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN).

The FALN claimed responsibility for a number of past bombing incidents, including the Jan. 24 explosion at Fraunces Tavern in New York in which four persons were killed and 56 injured. One of the banks damaged in Chicago, the Continental Illinois Bank, was once bombed by Puerto Rican terrorists.

In Chicago, an FBI spokesman said, "It sounds like some coordinated group since we have these explosions here and in ... other cities, but we're waiting for the reports from our men out in the field before we can say anything definite."

The State Department blast shattered windows and doors on three floors of the building. A police spokesman said the smell of powder was detected at the bombing site.

As many as 60 windows were blown out at the 110-story, 1,454-foot Sears Tower in Chicago, the world's tallest building. Other bombing sites in Chicago's downtown district included the IBM Building and the Continental Illinois Bank. Police said an unexploded bomb was found outside the Standard Oil Building and was disarmed by the bomb and arson unit.

In New York, the first blast was reported at 1:43 a.m. EST at the National Westminster Bank on Wall Street. It blew out five windows. Moments later, a bomb exploded outside the First National City Bank on Wall Street, damaging the building's marble exterior and blowing out windows at the Chase Manhattan Bank across the street.

"These were definitely both explosive devices," acting deputy fire chief Lawrence Surat said of the Wall Street blasts. "Just what they were, we don't know yet."

At about the same time, explosions were reported at the Chase Manhattan bank and the First National City Bank, both on East 57th Street, and at the U.S. Mission to the U.N., all in midtown Manhattan.

Damage to the two midtown banks and the U.N. mission was generally confined to broken glass.

Danny Mizesko, a security guard for First National City Bank on East 57th Street, said he heard a noise outside while he was on the 13th floor.

"We went down to see what it was. A milkman outside told me he heard the explosion down the street and we were glad that it wasn't in the building. So we were just walking back inside the building and the bomb went off. A few seconds later and we would have been right by it. Glass panes started falling all around and we ran across the street."

Mizesko's partner, James Staton, who went with him to investigate the first noise said, "Man we heard that first explosion and then the second one and 'whee-ooh'. We was scared."

Chicago police said they were looking for two men seen near two of the explosion sites.

Officials said a security guard saw one man place something on a bench in front of the main entrance to the Sears Tower shortly before an explosion broke scores of windows in the massive glass skyscraper. The man ran from the building to a waiting car and drove away. He was described as white, about 40 years old and wearing white pants and a short jacket.

A man was seen near the Continental Illinois Bank shortly before the bomb went off there. Police said a white man wearing a red sweater, about 30 years old, hopped into a car and drove away shortly before the explosion.

In New York, police said they were looking for three white males and a woman seen driving around the Wall Street area early today in a maroon car.

The explosion at the State Department, across the street from the new Federal Reserve Board headquarters building, was heard in Arlington County across the Potomac River.

In the confusion, reports from Arlington County were misunderstood in Washington to have been additional explosions on the Virginia side of the river, but Arlington County police said there had been no explosions within its boundaries.

Richard Vawter, spokesman for the General Services Administration, said the police bomb squad was called into the investigation. He said the explosion appeared to have been caused by an explosive device "planted or thrown on the outside, we don't know which."

The State Department Operations Center, the heart of the agency, reportedly was unaware of the explosion until workers heard about it from others.

25 Years Later ...A 'Dead' Crew May be Alive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A mother who never gave up, a private investigator, an insurance executive and a former private labeled a defector have triggered a drive to flush out facts about the fate of a Navy air crew that vanished a quarter of a century ago.

Some may be in a Russian prison. A PB4Y2 with 10 aboard disappeared over the Baltic in April, 1950. The crew was declared dead.

Because of work on behalf of a Muncie, Pa., insurance executive once imprisoned in Siberia, the Senate committee investigating the U.S. intelligence community may look into the case — including the possibility that some of the crew survived.

Under the Freedom of Information Act, the mother of one of the men aboard the flight asked for documents on the incident. Dortha Waldo of Kansas City, Kan., said she never believed her son, Ensign Tommy Lee Burgess, was dead.

"I've already said he's alive and I've never had a service for him. Maybe I feel that way because of some motherly instinct," Mrs. Waldo said.

John Noble of Muncie and William A. Marchuk of Collegeville, Pa., were imprisoned in Siberia. Both heard from inmates a Soviet vessel picked up eight survivors from an American plane that ditched in the Baltic.

Noble hired Theodore R. Grevers, a Grand Rapids, Mich., private detective, to follow up. On Noble's behalf, Grevers also has used the Freedom of Information Act to obtain official accounts of the incident. He also approached the Senate committee on intelligence.

"John Noble is convinced there are many Americans in Russian camps," Grevers said.

Sadat Seeking Arms And U.S. Economic Aid

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — It was off to Washington today for President Anwar Sadat of Egypt in quest of military aid to offset U.S. support of Israel.

"I shall be seeking all over the world if the United States does not agree to provide me," he said Sunday in a broadcast interview taped before he left Cairo.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has said any decisions or agreements reached in the two days of talks between Sadat and President Ford will not be announced immediately, but might be included in a total foreign aid package the administration soon will send Congress.

Ford planned an elaborate welcoming ceremony on the South Lawn of the White House for Sadat, first Egyptian head of state to visit the United States.

Sadat, accompanied by his wife and four children on a flight from Paris, was greeted during a rainstorm on his arrival in colonial Williamsburg Sunday by Kissinger and his wife.

Kissinger said Saturday the United States "will look very sympathetically at Egyptian requests" for economic aid and "we are prepared to have a general discussion" of requests for military assistance.

Under terms of the recent interim Sinai accord, Kissinger promised the United States would give Israel about $2.6 billion worth of economic and military aid and provide Egypt with about $600 million in economic assistance only.

"We believe that what we are doing in the Middle East is not the result of any agreement but is the result of long-term American interests," Kissinger said.

See Evans and Novak on Page 6

In the interview (on ABC's Issues and Answers) Sadat said he is "in a very peculiar position" because "up until this moment I haven't replaced any piece of arms that I lost in the (1973 Yom Kippur) war while Israel has replaced every arm it lost."

Administration sources say the United States has assured Israel it will not sell any sophisticated military equipment to Egypt for at least one year, probably not until after the 1976 presidential election.

But officials said Sadat is seeking at least $600 million in economic aid this year plus assurances of future American military aid including F16 jet fighters, tanks, Hawk missiles and electronic equipment.

Sadat also is reported to want a promise from Ford the United States will not sell Israel Pershing missiles, whose 450-mile range Sadat feels would make Cairo and other Arab capital an Israeli target.

He also wants a commitment from Ford that the United States will try to solve the Palestinian problem and continue other efforts to bring about a total peace in the Middle East.

The Soviet Union supplied Egypt with 90 per cent of its weapons until the war, then did not replace them. Sadat ended Egypt's reliance on Moscow and moved toward warmer relations with the United States, hoping Washington would help make up the weapons he did not get from Russia.

During his 10 days in the United States, Sadat will meet twice with Ford, attend a White House state dinner in his honor, address the National Press Club, travel to Jacksonville, Fla., where he may meet again with Ford, address a joint session of Congress, address the United Nations General Assembly and visit Chicago and Houston.

Singer Wants Assessor's Office Revamped

KINGSTON Conservative candidate for mayor Bernard Singer says city taxpayers are paying an additional $120 for every $20,000 worth of property they own (compared to the town of Ulster) because the Koenig Administration has failed to adequately staff the assessor's office.

Stating that "the people of Kingston have been penalized for years" due to Mayor Francis R. Koenig's neglect of the city assessor's office, Singer notes that the city's equalization rate has dropped almost ten points since Koenig took office in January of 1970.

The State Board of Equalization and Assessment sets

"equalization rates" which reflect the difference between true value and assessed value. Kingston's is currently 26.20 which in the opinion of the state, which derives it from samplings of recent property sales, means that the city is assessing its property at about one-quarter of its full value. Ten years ago the rate was almost 38 per cent. It's been dropping since.

Singer noting that the town of Ulster lost only 25/100's off its equalization rate last year, says the city is being penalized. "Since there are 8,203 parcels in the city of Kingston that adds up to a lot of money in the big rip-off," he said.

"Because of lack of attention on the part of the mayor it costs about a million dollars more in taxes for the residents of Kingston compared to the residents of the town of Ulster," Singer said.

Singer was also critical of Koenig of not officially protesting the state's lowering of the city's equalization rate. "The state sets up a 'grievance day' each year so that the city or town officials can appear and plead their cases for a higher rate to obtain lower taxes," Singer said. "It is my understanding that our mayor has never made an appearance before these hearings to help us."

Singer said that if elected he would "decrease the excessive staff in some of the city's departments and provide enough help in our assessor's office to get the job done in two years."

He said that the state recommends the assessor be given two staff members for every 3,500 parcels. "How can the assessor do the work if he doesn't have the tools?" Singer asked. "Can you imagine me sending a man out to fix a flat tire without sending a jack along? Where is the leadership Koenig is talking about?"

The Conservative candidate also charges that the city is in violation of the law by not assessing at full value. "Noting that many townships have gone to 100 per cent assessments and have experienced decreases in taxes in some cases," Singer says, "Kingston is so far behind in updating the listings of its properties that there is no doubt we will be the last to reach this goal."

"The mayor has stated that I am quick to criticize but fail to offer solutions to the city's problems," Singer said. "The obvious answer to this is that I will update the assessor's office and increase the staff so that they will be able to handle the work load and so lower our taxes."

"The fact that the rate is going down is a sure indication that the assessor's office is falling behind in its job. Under the present administration we are slipping badly rather than improving or even holding our own against the record of our neighbors," Singer concluded.

Something Amiss

Phonetically this new city street sign erected recently is right on the mark but anyone who's ever gone through the city school system and/or a course on Dutch colonial history knows that Peter Stuyvesant spelled his name with a 'U'. The most recent edition of the city directory wasn't much help either: it spelled the name "Stuyvesant". Old Peter, dead these many years would have been hopping mad. He only had one leg, remember? ### DeCicco Defends Auditorium Use

KINGSTON

City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco says that the Municipal Auditorium, contrary to what Republican Mayoral Candidate William K. Darling alleges, is used and used extensively by the public.

In fact, says DeCicco, who is responsible for booking activities at the Broadway building, the auditorium was in use 284 days so far this year, "various holidays and Sundays being excluded."

DeCicco was responding to a Darling press release in Sunday's Freeman whereby Darling questioned the city's priorities in allocating $150,000 of its Community Development Program budget to the renovation of the auditorium. He called it an extravagance.

The spending of that amount of money on the auditorium has been criticized before—the Ulster County Community Action Committee took the city to court—but not because the building was underutilized as Darling stated.

DeCicco drives home his argument by referring to his official records. "Since the Republican candidate has not bothered to check the facts, I could not sit by and allow the people of the city to be misinformed," said DeCicco.

DeCicco noted that in the Sunday Freeman where Darling's statements appeared there were three other stories informing the public of scheduled events in the auditorium, including a senior citizen Thanksgiving dinner, a boxing program and a dog training exercise.

"These three events are to take place at the auditorium. Each serving the interest of certain segments of the general public," DeCicco said. "Would Mr. Darling deny the usefulness of the building for these purposes?"

DeCicco also addressed himself to Darling's allegations that the decision to spend $150,000 on the auditorium was not shared with the public. "I would certainly believe the auditorium is getting its fair share of use and would warrant the consideration of renovation at the cost agreed on by the 'Citizen Participation' group, known as the Kingston Community Development Commission, chaired by Alderman Clifford Sinsabaugh of the 10th Ward," he said.

The Community Development Advisory Council DeCicco refers to did in fact recommend the renovation of the auditorium although the proposal was not aired at either of the two public hearings held by the commission prior to final submission of proposals to the full Common Council.

DeCicco concluded, "The renovation of the Kingston Municipal Auditorium can only mean the upgrading of a vitally needed facility in mid-town Kingston for every citizen to participate in whatever events take place that are of interest to him."

The city clerk cited the "common sense and foresight" of Mayor Francis R. Koenig and Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo in recommending the renovation of the municipal auditorium.

Pattern Studies Attacked

TOWN OF LLOYD
A spokesperson for Concerned Citizens of Highland (CCOH) has suggested that Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress is guilty of a "conflict of interest" in the reports and studies that it has prepared concerning electrical generation in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Pattern released a study this month which concluded that a 2,300 acre site in the Towns of Lloyd and Esopus is better suited than all others in this region to accommodate both nuclear and fossil fuel power plants.

But Mrs. Shirley Brand, speaking for the Highland-based anti-nuclear group, said that Pattern had previously performed four separate studies for the Atomic and Space Development Authority (ASDA) and that the author of Pattern's latest report is a former ASDA employee.

ASDA—now known as the Energy Research and Development Authority (ERDA)—owns the 2,300 acre Lloyd-Esopus site and is seeking to interest utility companies in purchasing and developing the site.

Mrs. Brand also charged that the Pattern report was undertaken with preconceived assumptions. She noted that Pattern had already prepared a special report for the former Catskill Study Commission which recommended that Mid-Hudson region power plants be clustered at the Lloyd site.

"There is no way that I personally can avoid concluding that this report was written in such a way as to include support for certain predetermined conclusions," said Mrs. Brand. "It is clear that the key recommendation in the report is that all nuclear plants being contemplated for the Mid-Hudson region be clustered on the Lloyd-Esopus site. There is also no mistaking the fact that they (Pattern) want the nuclear plant now being proposed for Cementon by the State Power Authority to be switched to Lloyd. . . . Pattern has been interested for some time in singling out the Lloyd site."

Mrs. Brand also accused Pattern of "employing a double standard" in assessing the relative merits of the Lloyd-Esopus site against other sites in the Mid-

Hudson region. She pointed out that a number of sites in the region were eliminated because of their rural-residential or wilderness nature, but that Pattern ignored the fact that the same considerations can be applied to the Lloyd site.

At one point in its study, said Mrs. Brand, Pattern made the observation that farmers located in the vicinity of the proposed Cementon plant "must be pondering the market response to crops produced near a nuclear plant. . . . Proof that a double standard is being employed is the fact that there is no mention of the farmers who would be in the vicinity of the four nuclear plants Pattern is proposing for Lloyd."

"Wouldn't the farmers of Ulster and Dutchess County be four times as concerned as the farmers of Columbia County?"

"If Pattern for Progress wishes to advocate the development of the Lloyd-Esopus site," she continued, "they have every right to do so, but they have a responsibility to be as straightforward, fair and consistent as possible."

Franco Rallies; Condition Grave

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco rallied today from a new setback in his fight for survival, but doctors said he was still in grave condition.

Three medical bulletins during the morning said the Spanish leader was "almost totally recovered" from the latest reversal in his up-and-down battle against twin heart attacks.

The communiques, indicating the latest crisis apparently was over, said Franco was resting quietly in his palace and receiving little new medication.

A fourth bulletin issued at noon (6 a.m. EST) said Franco's condition remains unchanged and that he was resting.

The report came six hours after doctors said a stomach hemorrhage and heart beat irregularities had left the 82-year-old generalissimo in critical condition.

"He has spent the night resting quietly, treatment has almost totally stopped the gastric hemorrhage and the disturbances in the heart rhythm, improving the cardiocirculatory condition," doctors said this morning.

The medical team treating Franco during his week-long fight for survival said he "is maintaining a normal consciousness level" but "the gravity continues."

Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, Franco's handpicked successor, rushed to the generalissimo's Pardo Palace Sunday night when a medical bulletin said "the situation is considered critical."

"The clinical condition of the chief of state has undergone a secondary aggravation as a result of a gastric hemorrhage and serious disturbances of the heart rhythm with marked increase of congestive heart failure," it said.

The setback came hours after Franco's 75-year-old wife, Carmen, and other close family members joined him in the palace to hear mass and receive communion.

The doctors said Franco had shown a slight improvement earlier in the day, but 24 hours before he had received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

Ten radio stations that usually go off the air at night hooked up with the national radio network and transmitted news of Franco around the clock.

Millions of Spaniards said prayers for Franco in churches across the country. Madrid newspapers carried headlines such as "Extreme Gravity" and "Franco In His Death Agony".

But on Spain's eastern coast, a bomb shattered windows of a building at the University of Valencia campus today. There were no reported injuries.

The national news agency said authorities suspended classes at the damaged School of Philosophy and Letters building until the damage is repaired.

Right to Die Decision Soon

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — Sometime in the next few days, a judge must decide whether comatose Karen Ann Quinlan can be removed from a life-sustaining machine and allowed to die — but the prosecutor says religion and emotion will not be at issue.

Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. is expected to make his decision in the "right to die" case this week.

Morris County Prosecutor Donald Colleser said he would call several medical experts at the resumption of the trial today.

Karen, 21, has been in a coma since April 14 when, according to friends, she mixed tranquilizers and alcohol during a birthday party for a friend. She is kept alive only by a respirator, and her family wants it disconnected to permit her to die.

The state contends that to remove her from the machine would amount to homicide.

Muir refused last week to see Karen because he felt the emotional impact might impair his legal judgment.

"Whether there is a philosophical or religious argument in this case is only tangential," Colleser said during the weekend. "It is being conducted in a court of law."

Colleser and other attorneys opposing the Quinlans' request to remove their adopted daughter from the respirator.

"If you told Karen Ann Quinlan she would go into a coma and check out and then she signed a statement that she did not want to prolong her life, I would accept that. But that is not the case," said Colleser.

Karen's parents, Roman Catholics Julia and Joseph Quinlan, did not attend church Sunday and instead stayed at home, praying the court ordeal would soon be over.

The Quinlans, generally expressionless through four days of testimony last week, said their "love, faith and courage" brought them into a court of law.

"The Quinlans don't say the respirator is sinful," said Paul W. Armstrong, the family's attorney who has based his argument on the rights of privacy and religious freedom.

"They believe Karen's life has drawn to a close and further treatment draws her back from the enjoyment of a better and more fulfilling life," he added.

But Donald R. Coburn, Karen's court-appointed guardian, argued in court that Karen's quality of life was no reason to end it.

"You just can't extinguish a life because it is an eyesore," said Coburn. "Their belief is an optional belief. There is no Catholic mandate which prevents extraordinary medical treatment."

The state, also has a vested interest in protecting Karen because a court decision in favor of the family would rock New Jersey's homicide statutes.

Six neurologists have testified that Karen is alive although she has only the primitive reflex functions of life, similar to that of an infant born without a brain.

Koenig Reappointed to Steering Committee

ALBANY
Mayor Francis R. Koenig has been reappointed to the Steering Committee of the New York State Conference of Mayors. Koenig was originally appointed last year. The Steering Committee is the legislative policy-making committee of the New York Conference of Mayors. Mayor Koenig will be meeting with other members of that committee who represent cities and villages throughout this State to determine the contents of the Conference of Mayors 1976 legislative program. In appointing Mayor Koenig as a member of this committee, Ithaca Mayor Edward J. Conley, chairman, indicated that members of the committee were chosen from those local officials who have taken an active interest in the advancement of local government and those who have, through their efforts, demonstrated an understanding and awareness of the problems which today face local government officials. Numerous legislative proposals recommended by the Steering Committee of the Conference of Mayors in the past are now law. Some subjects which will be on the agenda of the 1976 Steering Committee will include environmental assessment, labor relations, state aid, public works contracts, and multiple construction contracts. The New York Conference of Mayors and Municipal Officials, now in its 67th year, is New York's official association of cities and villages, of which 470 are members. The Conference serves as a clearinghouse for data and developments relating to New York local governments; functions as a liaison with federal and state governments; conducts training workshops and publishes information material and reports, all in keeping with its objectives of promoting progress in local government.

Darling Would Recognize Vols By Revision of City Charter

KINGSTON
Republican mayoral candidate William K. Darling has announced his support for a revision of the existing city charter to formally recognize the city's volunteer fire forces. Darling is running against Democratic Mayor Francis R. Koenig. The present charter refers only to a "fire department," which has come to mean both paid and volunteer forces. Volunteer firemen date to 1754 while the paid department was formed in 1908. Darling, noting that the future of volunteers is (now) in the hands of the fire commissioners, suggested that city residents join in support of the charter revision. "This law will go a long way to insure city residents of adequate personnel in times of emergency and will provide via their aldermen a more direct role in government operations. This is also a vote of confidence and a reassurance by city residents to the volunteers who have given unselfishly of their time and endangered their lives to aid their neighbors in times of emergency."

is stigmatized and where aging is treated as a social problem along with such topics as alcoholism and drug addiction.

their principal wage earning years are over.

"Formerly, problems associated with the aging process were handled by the children. In recent years, however, the role of the family has declined. Older people with time on their hands need the companionship of others, including long-time neighbors. This measure, if enacted, would assist many families to remain in their own homes, in their familiar neighborhood, after

"While we cannot reasonably expect government at all levels to replace family responsibilities toward the aged, this measure will be an indication to our senior citizens that this county does care.

"The rights of certain groups in our society such as minorities and women have in recent years received much attention. Do we not owe an equal attitude to the elderly who have contributed so much to this nation, state and county?"

Candidates Endorsed

KINGSTON
The Ulster County Chapter of Civil Service Employees Association (CSEA), in conjunction with the SUNY New Paltz chapter, has endorsed a list of candidates for the Ulster County Legislature. Receiving endorsement in District 1 (Wawarsing, Denning, Hardenburgh) were Democrats George Barthel and Louis Resnick. Endorsed in District 2 (Shandaken, Woodstock, Kingston) were Democrats Edward Uhlmann and James Barton.

labor's endorsement," Phillips said.

Phillips said the committee made recommendations on the basis of two criteria—personal interviews and voting records. He invited all CSEA members to the Dolphin Inn in Port Ewen where at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 30, candidates for county clerk, surrogate judge, coroner, mayor and alderman-at-large for Kingston will be heard. Members will then vote on endorsement for these positions.

Darling also favors a proposed increase in senior citizen property tax exemptions from $6,000 to $8,500.

Speaking at a public hearing held by the Ulster County Legislature last week, Darling said: "By enacting this measure, the county can assure its older residents we do care.

"Unfortunately, this nation is at a stage where growing old

District 3 (Saugerties) endorsements went to Democrats Mary Messina and Richard Thornton. Endorsed in District 4 (City of Kingston) were Democrats John Dwyer, Larry Kithcart, Eugene Perry, Kathleen Quick and James Gilpatric, and Republicans Melvin Mones, John Machione, Adam Geuss and Frances Stauble.

District 5 (Olive, Hurley, Ulster) endorsements went to Republicans Richard Nace Sr. and Stephen Hyatt and Democrats W. Jack Kahn and Janet Yallum. District 6 (Esopus, Rosendale) endorsements were for Louis M. Klein, Barbara DeStefano and Joseph Wolf, all Democrats.

Endorsed in District 7 (Marlborough, Rochester) were Republican Robert Kelder and Democrat Belle Sundeen. District 8 (New Paltz, Gardiner, Shawangunk) endorsements were for Democrats Thomas Nyquist and Barbara Pitt and Republicans Thomas Roach Jr. Endorsed in District 9 (Lloyd, Marlborough, Plattekil) were Brian White, James Canino, and John Haluska, all Democrats.

Tom Phillips, chapter president, said that in District 4 the CSEA political action committee endorsed more candidates than there were openings because either by word or actions the endorsed candidates had convinced the board that they were for the working man. "In good conscience, the board had to present to the voters all those candidates they felt were qualified," he said.

Another irregularity, Phillips said, was that some incumbent Republicans received misinformation regarding the legality of CSEA endorsement and therefore did not seek it or declined it when it was offered. "This was a shame, as there are qualified Republican incumbents who have earned

United States Savings Bonds vs. the Piggy Bank
1. If the Piggy Bank is stolen, you lose what's in it. That's the way it is with cash. If a Bond is stolen, you get a new one.
2. A Piggy Bank is easy for even its owner to rob. But Bonds can be bought through your Payroll Savings Plan at work, and a little is taken out of each check before you can get your hands on it.
3. The Piggy Bank may look kind and generous, but it won't give you any interest. A U.S. Savings Bond yields 6%, when held to 5-year maturity.
4. The Piggy Bank money just sits there. A Bond helps your country.
In summary, you might wonder why grown folks would even use Piggy Banks. It's so much smarter to buy Bonds. Avoid that empty feeling. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Crash Victim Identified as New Paltz State Student

By Matt Spireng

NEW PALTZ Authorities have tentatively identified a man burned beyond recognition in a spectacular two-car head-on collision early Saturday in the Town of New Paltz as Vincent Tomasselli, Jr., 22, of White Plains, a student at the State University College at New Paltz.

New Paltz Police said Tomasselli was driving east on Route 299 about six miles west of New Paltz at about 12:15 a.m. when he apparently lost control of his auto, crossed the center line and collided head-on with an auto operated by Maurice Downing, 36, of Chodokee Lake Road, Highland.

Tomasselli's car exploded and was engulfed in flames, police said. Tomasselli was pronounced dead at the scene.

Coroner Richard Buono, who went to the scene of the crash, ruled the death accidental. Downing was listed in critical condition today in the intensive care unit at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie.

Investigation of the crash is continuing, police said.

Meanwhile, in other area police matters:

A Young Jersey City, N.J. man who was critically injured in a bizarre accident Oct. 19 in the Town of New Paltz has died.

Dennis Loughman, 21, died last Friday at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie.

According to New Paltz Police, off-duty part-time patrolman Fred Luedeke, 41, of New Paltz was driving on Mountain Rest Road when Loughman, who was hitchhiking, jumped into the traffic lane, causing Luedeke to swerve into the opposite lane. Luedeke stopped, police said, and went back to Loughman who began struggling with him and attempted to drag him into the path of an oncoming car. Both men were hit by the auto. Luedeke was treated and released at a hospital. The state police have been called in to investigate the accident.

Police Beat

A young Tillson woman, Linda Knapp, 26, was listed in satisfactory condition today at Kingston Hospital, suffering from facial injuries sustained Sunday night in a crash on Elting Road in the Village of Rosendale.

Ulster County Sheriff's deputies said the woman was going south on Elting Road at about 8 p.m. when she struck a parked car owned by Richard Priest—recently appointed a village police commissioner.

The Knapp woman was partially ejected through the windshield of her car, deputies said. She was taken from the scene by Don's Ambulance. No tickets were issued.

Bruce Biese, 25, of Woodstock was listed in satisfactory condition today at Kingston Hospital suffering from injuries sustained Saturday night when a car he was driving slammed head-on into a tree on Chestnut Hill Road. Police said the car Biese was driving was allegedly taken without the consent of the owner and a charge is pending. He was also ticketed for driving while intoxicated and driving without a license.

Highland State Police in conjunction with Plattekill Town Police arrested James DeMattei, 20, of Plattekill late Saturday on charges of possession of a weapon (a sawed-off shotgun), unlawfully dealing with fireworks, and criminal possession of a controlled substance in the fifth and seventh degrees. Police said DeMattei was allegedly in possession of some 400 "hits" of THC (chemically-created hallucinogenic, according to police) and a quantity of marijuana. He was jailed without bail.

Sheriff's Deputies arrested William Richards, 23, of Syosset, L.I. Saturday on a charge of fifth degree possession of a controlled substance after a search at the jail revealed he was allegedly in possession of a quantity of amphetamines. Deputies said he was initially arrested on a driving while intoxicated charge.

Davis for Surrogate

The Freeman heartily endorses native Kingston Arthur A. Davis for his second 10-year term as Surrogate Judge.

Surrogate Court Judge Davis, in the Freeman's opinion, has all the solid credentials for this important part of the unified court system of New York State.

A look at his background gives ample proof of these credentials.

He is a past president of the Ulster County Bar Association, and is presently a member of the American Bar Association, the New York State Bar Association, the Ulster County Bar Association and is a member of the Executive Committee of the Surrogate's Association of the State of New York.

Surrogate courts are part of the state's court system and a judge of a surrogate's court may be temporarily assigned to the supreme court, a county court, a family court or surrogate's court in another county.

Surrogate Davis is fully capable of holding down any of these assignments — which, in fact, he has done during his first 10-year term of office.

Surrogate Judge Davis has been assigned to trial and special terms of the Supreme Court, not only here in Ulster County but in Albany and Sullivan Counties as well.

The Surrogate Judge must possess the experience and ability as well as integrity for this important judicial post. The Freeman, in endorsing Surrogate Davis for reelection, believes he qualifies to the utmost in all three categories.

The Freeman also praises Democrat William C. Mullany, a Kingston attorney, who has been an outstanding opponent for the incumbent Judge Davis.

Mr. Mullany has expressed great concern over the rapidly rising costs of judicial administration. His candidacy is a boost to the county Democratic party for giving the voters a choice of two qualified gentlemen for this most important post.

Staley and Miner

An experienced justice, who was elected to the Supreme Court in 1960 and a Columbia County district attorney are the Republican nominees for the two 14-year terms for Supreme Court Justice from the Third Judicial District in New York State.

The Freeman endorses both of these candidates — Ellis J. Staley Jr. of Loudonville, a veteran of 10 years of experience as a jurist — and Roger J. Miner of Hudson, the Columbia County DA, who has gained respect from both the bench and the bar for his handling of hundreds of criminal cases. In such, he has demonstrated firmness and compassion as a public official.

Ellis Staley has served with distinction on the bench of New York State's Supreme Court and has conducted himself with judicial acumen since he was first elected to his high post in the state.

Miner was first elected as Columbia County DA in 1967 and was reelected in 1970 and again in 1973, when he was returned to that office without opposition and with the support of the Conservative Party as well.

He has been engaged in the general practice of the law for some years and has demonstrated his ability as a trial lawyer in numerous criminal and civil cases. As Special Counsel for the City of Hudson and the County of Columbia, Miner has served under bipartisan appointment.

The Freeman believes the election of both Staley and Miner as Justices of the Supreme Court, Third Judicial District, is vital to the needs of constituents in Ulster, Albany, Columbia, Greene, Rensselaer, Schoharie and Sullivan Counties.

Running on the Democratic ticket for Supreme Court Justices from the Third Judicial District are Milton Levine of Monticello and Daniel H. Prior Jr. of Albany.

Berry's World

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The FBI withheld from the Warren Commission hundreds of documents about the John F. Kennedy assassination.

These are raw FBI files, which the commission requested but never received. They contain no startling information that will overturn the commission's verdict, but they reveal intimately how the FBI handled its most important case.

In the margins of some suppressed memos, the late FBI chief, J. Edgar Hoover, scribbled caustic comments in blue ink. He was critical of almost everyone involved in the investigation, from Dallas police chief Jesse Curry to President Lyndon Johnson.

Confidential notes kept by one top FBI official, for example, quote Hoover as warning: "Johnson may become very dictatorial. We must keep our guard up."

Sources familiar with the suppressed documents say the contents were summarized and submitted to the Warren Commission. But there were some subtle, perhaps deliberate, omissions.

The documents show that Hoover brought pressure on his subordinates to rush out a preliminary report on the FBI investigation before the murdered President's brother, Robert Kennedy, returned to his post as Attorney General.

The confidential notes quote Hoover as instructing his subordinates to get the report out of the Justice Department "before Bobby gets back."

Apparently, the FBI chief also feared Deputy Attorney

General Nicholas Katzenbach might tamper with the report before forwarding it to the Warren Commission. Hoover told his aides to alert President Johnson's major domo, Walter Jenkins.

"Let Jenkins know after report is out of our hands," Hoover directed. "Let Johnson know what Katzenbach is doing. Might cause long delay. Must not consider any alteration."

Thirteen days after President Kennedy was gunned down in Dallas, Hoover delivered a detailed report to Katzenbach naming Lee Harvey Oswald as the assassin. Katzenbach kept it four days before submitting it to the commission.

The crusty, old G-man was furious at the Dallas police chief, meanwhile, for leaking the story that the FBI had investigated Oswald but had failed to alert the Secret Service.

"This is lowest level in history of Bureau since I have been director," Hoover lamented, according to the confidential notes.

He contended that Oswald had never been seen with firearms, had written no hate letters against U.S. leaders. As a former defector, he also knew he was a marked man whom the FBI was watching.

"With that background," grumbled Hoover, "how could he be security risk? No indication of violence so far as our records show . . . Oswald could have hollered false arrest if we had arrested him."

The FBI chief commented that Chief Justice Earl Warren, who headed the commission, "would have been first one to holler" about Oswald's rights. Citing the criticism of the FBI, Hoover commented: "This is one of the rough ones."

He felt, therefore, that President Johnson should have endorsed the FBI report. "President should have backed up report," complained the G-man, "based on evidence gathered by FBI."

In private remarks that were never intended to be repeated outside his inner circle, he made depreciating remarks not only about President Johnson but about Senator Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who was then preparing to run against LBJ for the presidency.

"Goldwater has no sound advisers around him," Hoover noted. But his comment on Johnson was more deadly. "LBJ's speeches are dull," said the G-man.

The Warren Commission adopted a resolution, meanwhile, calling for "the raw materials upon which any reports given to the commission are based, together with all raw materials and reports relating to the work of the commission since the date of any and all earlier reports."

J. Lee Rankin, the general counsel, followed up with a "Dear Edgar" letter to the FBI chief requesting the raw files "as promptly as possible." But they were never delivered.

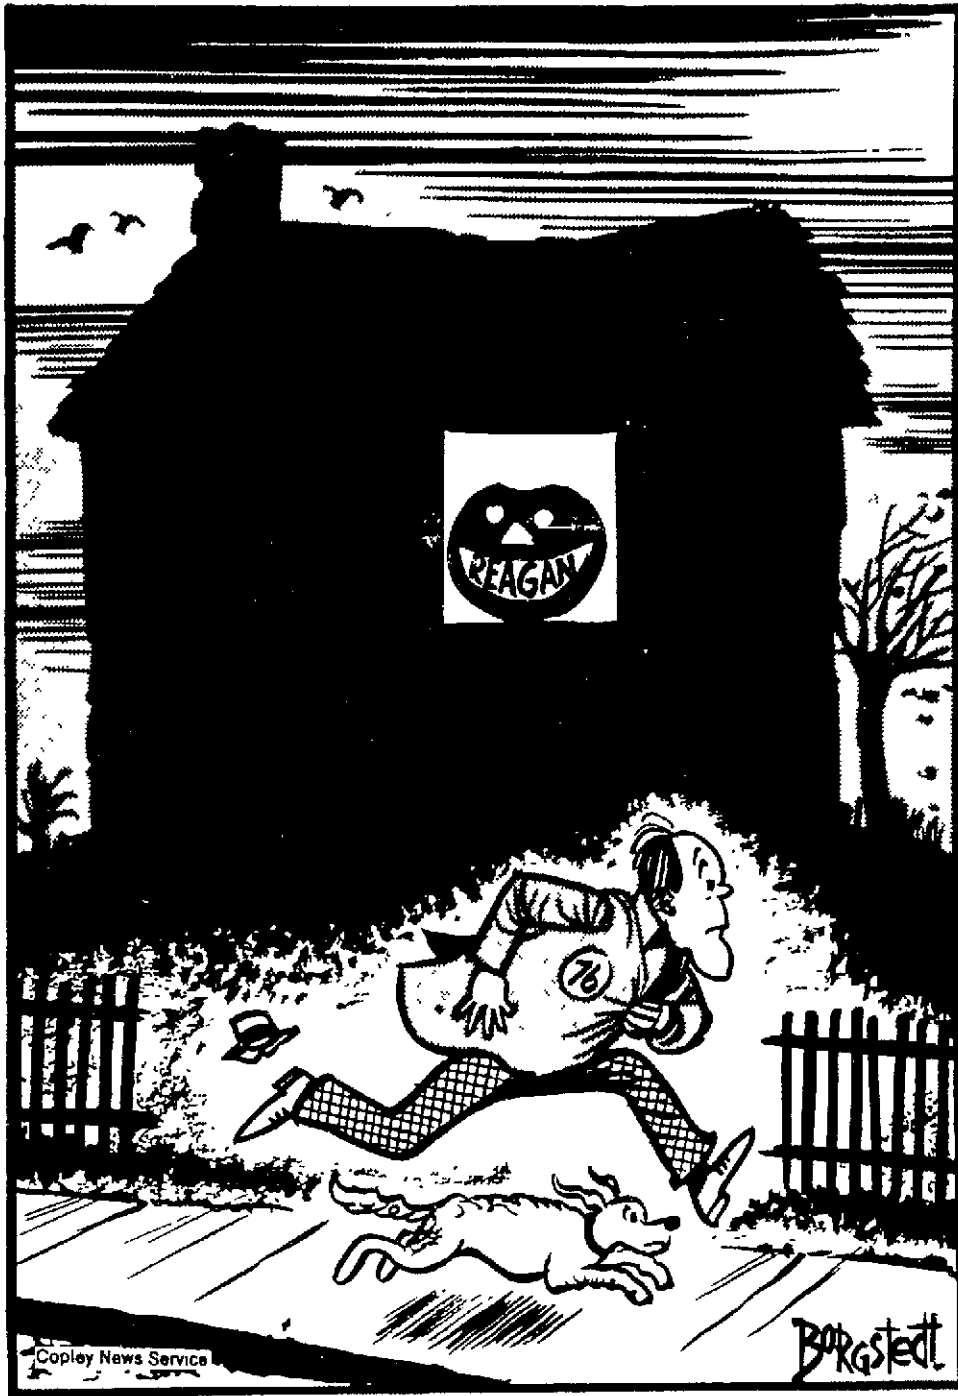

A commission lawyer, remembering those days more than a decade ago, told us: "Nobody ever got to the FBI's own files." In 1963-64, another staff member pointed out, the FBI "could do no wrong," so no one pressed too hard for their internal records.

Now 12 years after the Kennedy assassination, a fascinating story is still locked in FBI files awaiting a public reopening. We will tell part of the story in future columns. Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., chairman of the Senate Intelligence subcommittee investigating the assassination, is seeking the full story from the FBI.

FOOTNOTE: FBI spokesmen stoutly defended the FBI's findings and the thoroughness of the investigation. They conceded that "informative" and "deliberative" memos were not given to the commission. But "everything they needed was given them. They had all they wanted to make their findings."

The Widening Split Between Ford, Sadat

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — A dangerous chasm is widening between President Anwar Sadat's private claim that vast American arms have been promised to Egypt and the Ford administration's public assertion that Egypt will receive virtually no arms at least until after the 1976 presidential election.

Although officials here downgrade the importance of the arms-for-Egypt issue, it could undermine Sadat's historic state visit here, the first by an Egyptian leader to the U.S. since the Nasser revolution 23 years ago.

Sadat has made no secret within his own government of his claim that the $5 billion arms shopping-list he is bringing here will be given more than just cursory study by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger. Indeed, Sadat — now far out on a limb inside the Arab world and under increasing attack for making a separate Sinai deal with Israel — has told his military commanders that important parts of his shopping list will be fulfilled in Washington.

In fact, however, Kissinger went public in an obviously intentional way on "Meet the Press" Oct. 12 to undercut Sadat's shopping list even before it is handed to him. The U.S., he said, would not be prepared "at this moment to make any specific commitments of military aid."

Only Sadat and Kissinger know what assurances, if any, the secretary gave the Egyptian leader about U.S. arms deliveries. But the fact that Sadat is using the arms issue inside his own government as political underpinning to shore up his controversial Sinai agreement shows how worried he really is about resentment against him within the Arab world shared by some power centers in his own country.

Sadat's political danger will become instantly clear when the Ford administration sends its long-delayed Middle East aid package to Congress, now scheduled for submission during the very week that Sadat will be President Ford's guest. That package will ask about $2.3 billion for Israel (which continues to occupy large Arab territories seized in 1967) and around $500 million for Egypt.

The huge disparity between those two figures (even though the amount for Egypt is far higher than ever before) will feed Arab critics now accusing Sadat of selling out Syria and the Palestinians to get a separate Sinai agreement of his own.

But even harsher troubles await Sadat when Congress starts hacking away at the President's aid request. With Congress taking an extraordinarily critical look even at Kissinger's pledges of military aid for Israel, the administration's half-a-loaf for Egypt is certain to be whittled down. Indeed, the recession, coupled with New York City's highly-advertised financial crisis, has created a political climate distinctly hostile to all foreign aid.

That underlines Sadat's political danger and exposure inside the Arab world. For years, the U.S. lobbied him to break his once-intimate Moscow connection, which he did in 1972. That virtually cut him off from Soviet military aid, while Israel went on receiving huge amounts of American military aid.

Then Kissinger, blocked by Israel from attempting a settlement of the Palestine question last year, persuaded Sadat to let the U.S. mediate the Sinai deal with the implied understanding that it would be quickly followed by an Israeli-Syrian deal on the Golan Heights. Instead, there has been no progress at all toward U.S. mediation between Syria and Israel and now relations between Egypt and Syria have reached their lowest point ever.

The clear meaning of this is that both Kissinger and Sadat underestimated the Pan-Arab reaction to the separate Egyptian-Israeli Sinai agreement, under which Israel agreed to withdraw from the Sinai mountain passes and the Abu Rudeis oil fields.

With only the barest prospect now that Kissinger will be able to promote Israeli-Syrian negotiations — or meaningful negotiations between Israel and both Syria and the Palestinians — till after the 1976 election, Sadat remains on a limb. Accordingly, he desperately wants to show that his new Washington connection will produce new American weapons to give his exposed position some cover.

That he will not get them consigns him to a long and lonely vigil on the end of the limb.

The Good Samaritan of the Road

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Home. It was a great automobile trip of 3,824 miles. Let's not do it anymore. This is being typed in a pain-wracked bed. The only encouragement I get from my wife is from under a big comforter. "Must you make all that noise?" It's not the typewriter. Stop grinding your teeth."

We drove from the Gold Coast of Florida to South Carolina, to Petersburg, Va., to the Jersey shore, to New York, to Niagara Falls. Then back to Olean, N.Y., to Cincinnati, O., to Macon, Ga., to Florida and home.

The most interesting part of driving nine hours each day was watching Kelly complete a big yellow flower in needlepoint. It now has petals, but no green stem.

The lowlight of the trip was meeting waitresses, filling station operators, motel managers and room clerks. All have one thing in common. They are mad at "Washington." If it is possible to synthesize their feeling, it is that they hold the President, the Congress, and the Press to blame for their troubles.

The three are in cahoots. They plot the downfall of America as they devise their own enrichment. Simply stated, Congress has no leadership except to raise its salaries. The President gives our taxes away to foreign countries and works for the oil companies. The Press lies to cover governmental crimes.

So, what else is new? I'll tell you what. On the night before we reached home, we managed to lose a great city in the darkness. Macon, Ga., disappeared.

My wife and I saw the lights of the city tooling along Route 75. We were hungry. We were tired. The time was 9 p.m. Momentarily, Madame Defarge gave up her knitting. "We get off here," I said. Her comment was, "I have a pain in my spine. I think."

There was Macon. Then it was gone. The signs in the blackness said: "Route 16." The sign said: "Savannah, East 169." I said it was her fault. She said I had learned to write, but not to read.

Ten miles into darkness we found an exit. We got off. The car was turned back toward Macon. We muttered. The words were fearful. Suddenly we saw Macon. "Which exit?" I said. "The next one," she said. There was no next one.

The car was heading toward Atlanta. We got off again. "Slow," she said. I went slow. Drivers behind me honked. The sign said: "Minimum 40 miles." We went by Macon, saw the motels, and looked for an exit.

In a moment we were on Route 16, heading for Savannah again. The Bishops looked like two ducks in a Terrytoon. We were in and out of Macon as though it were a revolving door. We returned — God knows how many times — and got off.

We had lost all the motels. A cab driver said, "Up this road, make a left, make a left again, go down to 75, turn left, and get off at the next exit." We made it, shouting each turn to each other.

When we got to the motel, dinner was over, but they had lots of candy.

It was a sweet ever-lovin' night. In the morning, we headed for Florida. We were going south though Alachua. Kelly was needlepointing furiously. There was an explosion. The car rocked. So did I.

The right rear steel radial had blown. We were on the shoulder of the road. The time was 2:05 p.m. I put the blinkers on and tied a white kerchief to the aerial. "We'll be here for days," I moaned. "Nobody helps anybody. Who did we ever help?" Wrong again. Within six minutes, a Florida State car pulled up in front. Officer Elwood Tyre got out. "You need help mister?" he said. "Engine gone dead? I can get help in a couple of minutes."

I explained that it was the tire. He grinned. "I can fix that myself. Used to work in a filling station." I was pop-eyed with disbelief.

He donned a Public Service Commission coverall over his uniform. He got the jack. Got the spare. Hiked the car. Took the shredded tire off. Put it in the trunk. Sweated profusely. Told us not to worry. Put the new wheel on.

Dropped the jack. Put it in the trunk. Closed it. "On your way," he said. I had a bill in my hand. "No way," he said. I begged. "Not a chance," he said.

I shook my head as I started. I had met a real, live, honest-to-God human being. For me, it made the whole trip . . .

Offer of Mayoral Debate Forum

KINGSTON The Board of Directors of A.H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company, is willing to offer the mayoral candidates the forum for debate they lost when the paid firemen canceled theirs on Oct. 14.

The Wicks men, who have been at odds with the paid men —R. Bruce McLean is their captain — don't accept reasons given by the paid firemen for the cancellation of their debate, originally set for Oct. 20.

They feel the "real reason" is McLean's reinstatement, made public on Oct. 15.

"This becomes even more obvious because the debate was canceled before either major candidate had a chance to accept the invitation. It is well known that at least mayoral candidate William Darling is willing to meet the firefighters on the issues and to take action to resolve them," a press release said.

"The Board of Directors of Wicks is not surprised at this action for it is typical of the co-operation which exists between the Paid Firefighters' leadership and the mayor (Francis R. Koenig) when it appears that their true motive, desires and ambitions will be revealed to the light of day.

"This motive is to undermine, demean and eventually eliminate an effective volunteer fire force in the city. One only has to become aware of the unfair treatment and abuse of the volunteers in the last few years, to substantiate this. Take for instance the recent drill at Benedictine Hospital involving all city emergency services except the volunteers, the recent restriction imposed on first alarm responses by volunteer companies and the paid fighters suing of the Kingston Volunteers for its share of the two percent Fire Fund."

"We would welcome a debate by the mayoral candidates and are hereby extending a public invitation to meet in public to discuss these issues and to let the citizens of Kingston know just where they stand on the issues. Details as to the time and place will be announced shortly," the statement concluded.

LABOR LAWS AND ERA

The 1964 Civil Rights Act invalidated so-called "protective" labor laws that had the effect of limiting choices of jobs and overtime pay to women.

The Equal Rights Amendment will insure that restrictive discriminatory laws will not be reinstated and that beneficial protective laws are EXTENDED to cover men.

"The ERA is precisely the kind of clear statement . . . that working women badly need". R. Corbett, Pres. NYS AFL-CIO

Latest Campaign Funds Reports

KINGSTON William K. Darling, the Republican candidate for mayor, has filed campaign spending disclosure statements showing that he has received a total of $5,955 in contributions since his campaign started and spent $4,077 of which $1,224 was spent on behalf of his running mate's (Emily Johnson's) campaign. Mayor Francis R. Koenig, on the other hand, shows total receipts of $9,120, all from a fund raising dinner on Aug. 20 and expenditures of $4,466, most of that ($3,320) going to his running mate, incumbent Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo. Mrs. Johnson's statement, filed on Monday, she had previously filed a statement that she had not received or spent $1,000 — shows that she received a total of $1,285 on Oct. 1. Most of that came from the County Republican Committee, $1,000. Her statement shows she spent $347 for advertising. Darling's statements cover the period from the beginning of his campaign through Oct. 20 while Koenig's statements cover the period through Oct. 10, the deadline for filing the first report.

Under receipts Darling shows two $1,000 donations, one from Moe Solomon of the Stuyvesant Hotel and one from the candidate himself.

He shows a pair of $200 contributions from Amos R. Newcombe of Manor Lake along with $200 from James Berardi Sr. of Abel Street.

In the period between Oct. 10 and 20 Darling shows a $1,000 contribution from the Ulster County Republican Committee and $100 from James L. Price of Vista Drive, Kingston. The bulk of his money is spent for advertising according to his statement, with Modjeska Sign Studios getting $1,710. The Daily Freeman is next with $1,500 followed by Donovan Advertising Inc. of Stantburg for $710.

The third man in the mayoral race, Conservative Bernard Singer, has filed a statement attesting to the fact he has neither spent nor received more than $1,000.

Ulster Republican Town Board Speaks Out With True Facts!

Mr. Starkman and Mr. Stedje have misrepresented, misstated, distorted and lied about the facts long enough. Here are the actual and true data that the record discloses.

Fact Number One: Another devious statement and deception by Mr. Starkman in a recent press release, in which he stated that the resolution of the Town Board dated June 25, 1971, gave Supervisor Sabino a blank check. The truth of the matter is that the resolution reads as follows:

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Town Board of the Town of Ulster, Ulster County, New York as follows:

"1. That Carmine Sabino as Supervisor of the Town of Ulster and Fiscal Officer of the Ulster Sewer Improvement be authorized to institute such condemnation proceedings as may be necessary to secure the easements which have not been acquired by negotiation."

Does this in fact give Supervisor Sabino a blank check, or does it merely empower him to institute such condemnation proceedings that may be necessary to secure easements?

The truth of the matter is that Mr. Sabino did not have a blank check to negotiate settlements, but they were all subject to the approval of the Town Board.

Fact Number Two: Mr. Starkman, who apparently is well versed and experienced in the art of distortion of facts, stated or implied that a settlement between the Town Board and Gordon Dick and Helen Boice was to set a precedence for the ultimate benefit of Supervisor Sabino. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Fact Number Three: An excerpt of a communication from J. Kenneth Fraser and Associates, P.C., Consulting Engineers of Rensselaer, New York states as follows:

"At one time, we were questioned by Town Officials concerning a possibility of re-routing this sewer around the Boice property and we told them that it would be impossible to circumvent the property and continue to have the North Interceptor remain a gravity sewer. Such a re-routing would have involved the construction of a very large, major pumping station and the complete redesign of the interceptor system south of the Kingston Bypass. It not only would have cost hundreds of thousands of dollars more than the present design, but would have also eliminated the ability to serve the large acreage in this area, should it develop in the future, without the future construction of a similar collecting sewer in the same location as the North Interceptor sewer in the future. In summary, the North Interceptor Sewer, in its present location, is a vital link of the sewage collection system and in our opinion is in the most economical location. Furthermore, it is in the only location where it could be maintained as a gravity sewer and provide a maximum of benefit both now and in the future for the people of the Ulster Sewer Improvement Area."

The estimated cost of a pumping station, in lieu of gravity feed would be in excess of $200,000.00. Needless to say, the Town Board followed the advice that was given them by the consulting engineers and negotiated the purchase of an easement through the Boice property. This easement is over 5,000 feet long, 30 feet wide with 13 manholes and follows the contour of the ground to avoid the necessity of pumping stations to keep the pipe at a minimum depth. It must be also understood that the right of way must at all times be kept open and free of encumbrances to facilitate necessary repairs.

Fact Number Four: Condemnation versus Settlement: These are the true figures and not distorted misrepresentations:

COST COMPARISON
—Land Acquisition for Main Interceptor Sewer Lines
Methods—Condemnation versus Town Board Settlement

PROPERTIES
HOROWITZ CONDEMNATION
—Footage acquired—501 Linear feet, 2' trunk line sewer laid in natural drainage ditch
1. Award by Court Condemnation . . . . . $12,000
2. Interest—from date of taking approx. . . . . 2,160
3. Sewer District Attorney Fee . . . . . 750
4. Court Steno Fee . . . . . 732
5. Appraisal Fee . . . . . 300
6. Condemnation Commissions fee . . . . . 1,000
7. Town Board Settlement . . . . . 0
8. Installation of lengthening lateral sewer lines . . . . . 0
9. Total Cost to Sewer District . . . . . $16,942
10. Cost per linear foot . . . . . $33.82

BOICE SETTLEMENT

$10 00

Should the Boice property have been resolved in condemnation on the basis of the only decision in condemnation handed down so far, it is easily conceivable that it could have cost the Sewer District far in excess of a $169,000. In any event, even at this cost, should the Town Board have decided not to settle with the Boice family, the alternative cost to by-pass them would have been prohibitive.

Fact Number Five: Mr. Starkman and Mr. Stedje have made a great fuss and to-do over the fact that people in the sewer district gave easements to the sewer district for $1.00. Either by design or deceit, they neglected to explain to the people the difference between the easement for a main trunk line across properties and lateral easements along the roadway infringing on adjoining landowner properties.

Mr. Starkman and Mr. Stedje, you make a point that the properties where the easements were taken were improved. Aren't you aware of the fact that all of the properties within the sewer district have been improved? Isn't your property worth more, now that you have a sewer district and no longer have to rely on a septic tank? Don't you call this "Progress" or is it all down the drain?

Messrs. Starkman and Stedje, you are going to find out that noisy lies may attract attention, but don't you think the voters are bright enough to see through these lies and false accusations?

By Tobie Geertsema

STONE RIDGE

There's a mini Shaw Festival being staged currently in Stone Ridge and it got off to a good luck start recently, with one of the most boisterous mixups in the archives of Shavian melodrama.

In its premiere at Ulster County Community College, audiences warmly hailed "The Devil's Disciple" by crotchety old Bernard the Great, possibly the most prolific Victorian of them all.

While the UCCC presentation is not an exactly masterful production—some of the actors showing break-in fatigues with forgotten lines and mis-cued interruptions of each other's speeches on the night we attended—it is assuredly well-tuned to light autumn fun. And for visitor bonus, there is the superb Quimby Theatre on the Stone Ridge campus, its mellow yellow upholstery making it the warmest drama home in the area.

In staging this play, which pivots satirically upon an identity mistake, director John Lawson has added amusing dimension to familiarity. This is a production that promises improvement by the time it is presented again for the public—Oct. 31 and Nov. 1—and it should be seen.

"The Devil's Disciple" is based on an impersonation of true Bicentennial value, as Dick Dudgeon, rebel Yankee, offers himself on the gallows for a minister sought by 1777 mercenaries of George III.

The cream of Shaw's jest, of course, is that heroism is meaningless and bravery unreasoned, a concept the youthful collegiate cast manages to protect with elan. The whole company works well together building up the laughs in the first two acts; tossing all restraint to the winds in the third act when court-martial and dangling noose inject rousing excitement.

As Dick Dudgeon, the Devil's Disciple himself, Tim delly brings a swashbuckling bravura and brio to his role. In the prize role of Gen. Burgoyne, his majesty's skeptical surrogate, Tim Rose turns in a performance of persuasive mockery. As the minister, David Levine has several fine moments; is particularly good in the scene in which he discourses on love and hate. At other times, however, he has not yet quite captured the essence of flamboyant swagger that is almost a requirement of this part.

As the minister's pretty and much younger wife, who is attracted in spite of her Puritanism to wastrel Dick, Linda Bontempo acts intensely; proves her value as an all-around actress by being beautifully soft or saucy depending on which is required in any given scene. Neal Knapp is a splendid Major Swindon, a role that makes him the "heavy" of the piece. Judy Wyman has the maturity to play Dick's mother and acts with a period sense of 1777 New England.

There is sterling work also from Elliot Lupkin as Dick's brother, Sue Hassa as an orphaned cousin of the Dudgeon family, and Chris Molloy and Harold Stevenson, both of whom are bluffly good as two Dudgeon uncles. And, if Tom Joscelyn seemed a shade stonier on reticence than on emotion as Lawyer Hawkins, the audience didn't seem to mind; laughed at his youthful zest. Adding to the ensemble acting in minor roles were Pat Martini and Maggie Apgar as Dudgeon aunts, Harold Stevenson as a sergeant, Bill Russell as the executioner, and Chris Molloy, doing double duty as a chaplain after a costume switch from Uncle William Dudgeon.

For his simple and uncluttered direction, John Lawson deserves thanks. Ray Passer's sets contributed immensely to the production; Harold Stevenson's lighting evoked the gloom of a New Hampshire dawn and the warmth of the minister's home; and Martelle Lawson's costumes were self-effacing and correct for the American settlers, colorfully proper for the British military.

Teen Enters Wrong Beauty Queen Contest

DEAR ABBY. I hope you will print my letter to warn other girls against mistaking the Miss U S Teen Pageant for the Miss Teenage America Pageant. I made that mistake.

I paid an entry fee of $75 and drove 260 miles from my home after being accepted as a Florida entry in the Miss U S Teen Pageant. I had to pay all my own expenses for an overnight trip, plus buy a special wardrobe.

The girl who won first prize got a $500 scholarship for a LOCAL college — a far cry from the $10,000, four-year scholarship for the college of her choice, which is what the winner of the Miss Teenage America Pageant gets.

Too late I discovered that I had entered a LOCAL Teen Queen contest, thinking it was the National Miss Teenage America Pageant!

After checking, I learned that any girl can enter the preliminaries of the Miss Teenage America Pageant in her home town, and it doesn't cost her one penny. And she doesn't have to be sponsored. She can enter as a candidate at large.

I have chalked up my mistake to experience, but you could do teenage girls a big favor by advising them to find out exactly what each pageant does or does not offer before they enter.

Lunch and Learn

The monthly LUNCH AND LEARN program of the Ulster County Home Economics Division of Cooperative Extension will be held Wednesday from noon until 12:30 and from 12:30 until 1 p.m.

The program, to be held at the Extension Headquarters, 74 John Street, will be on the topic, Hostess Gifts — No Charge.

Everyone is welcome.

DEAR TAKEN: Consider it done! Yours is only one of many such complaints I've received.

Girls, beware!

DEAR ABBY: I am a sunny dispositioned Aquarius who likes to write ragtime music, but my mother is making my life unbearable.

She is 72 and a Virgo. She also is the most self-righteous woman in the world. When I was 9, my father blew his brains out. Whether my mother drove him to it, I cannot say for certain, but the few memories I have of my father are the visits I paid him in a local hotel where he would stay frequently because he and my mother couldn't live at home together in peace.

My mother insulted my Edgar Cayce study group the other evening when she called them "a bunch of nincompoops," so I decided to move out of the house. I could write a book. If all this is karma, I have paid my debt.

Now my mother wants me to come back so she'll have somebody to yell at. Am I wrong to refuse to return? I don't need her to provide me with room and board, but I feel guilty.

ERA AND CHILD CUSTODY

"New York law presently provides that custody awards will be made in the 'best interests' of the child. There is an explicit prohibition against any statutory presumption that either the father or the mother should have the child. Thus, the courts will continue to make custody determinations as they presently do, in terms of which parent most properly ought to keep the children." Senator Karen Bustein, NYS Senate.

Nottingham Does Fine Impersonation of Csonka

By RICK GOSSELIN
UPI Sports Writer

When Pete Rozelle ruled late last week no National Football League team could sign any players away from the large pool of unemployed World Football League talent, there was a gnashing of teeth in Miami.

The ruling meant Larry Csonka, the game's most punishing ball carrier, would not be able to play for the Dolphins this year even if Don Shula and his band of legal advisers could talk John Bassett into relinquishing a personal services contract he has with the big fullback.

Miami fans figured with Csonka back in the NFL, battling away at defensive lines the Dolphins would tuck away their fifth straight AFC Eastern Division title.

Without Csonka, though, the Dolphins figured to be a little strained in extending their dominance in the East, especially with the Buffalo Bills making noises of initiating their own dynasty.

With Csonka out of the picture, Miami was forced to live or die on its inside running game with 5-foot-10, 210-pound Don Nottingham—a nice little parcel to have in one's backfield but certainly no Csonka.

No Csonka, that is, until he has to be—then Nottingham does a pretty good impersonation, as was the case Sunday when he punched through the Buffalo defense for three touchdowns to give Miami Nottingham's final touchdown came with 1:25 left in the game and climaxed a 14 point fourth quarter rally after Buffalo had pulled in front 30-21 midway through the final period on the second of two Joe Ferguson to Bob Chandler touchdown passes.

"It was a game we had and we lost it," muttered Buffalo Coach Lou Saban. "I can't explain my feelings about this loss. Brutal..."

SPORTS TODAY

first blood in their two-game series and first place in the AFC East.

Nottingham scored on short bursts of one, three and one yards to provide Miami a 35-30 victory over Buffalo and a one game lead in the East over the Bills, who have now dropped two games after winning four straight at the start of the season. Miami is now 5-1.

It was the 11th straight time Miami has beaten Buffalo and the Dolphins were successful because of their ability to shut down O.J. Simpson, holding him under 100 yards for the first time this season. He gained 88 yards in 19 carries.

Mercury Morris, Nottingham's running mate who was once thought to be Simpson's equal three years ago, rushed for 124 yards in 20 carries to top all ball carriers.

"I may have closed the gap a bit on O.J.," said Morris, "but I don't care. What matters is that we widened the gap in the standings."

In other games, Baltimore crushed the New York Jets 45-28, Kansas City eluded Denver 26-18, Cincinnati beat Atlanta 21-14, Houston thumped Detroit 24-8, Pittsburgh nipped Green Bay 16-13, New England battered San Francisco 26-14, Washington swamped Cleveland 23-7, Dallas edged Philadelphia 20-17, Los Angeles mauled New Orleans 38-14 and Oakland blanked San Diego 25-0.

On Saturday, the St. Louis Cardinals outlasted the New York Giants 20-13.

Chiefs 26 Broncos 13

Jan Stenerud kicked four field goals and Mike Livingston started Denver with an eight-yard touchdown run on a naked reverse in the fourth quarter to propel Kansas City past Denver. Stenerud kicked field goals of 28, 46, 37 and 23 yards.

Bengals 21 Falcons 14

Quarterback Ken Anderson snuck into the end zone from three yards out with 2:04 left in the game to keep Cincinnati unbeaten at 6-0. The Bengals' other touchdowns came on a 30-yard interception return by Ken Riley of a Pat Sullivan pass and a 30-yard pass from Anderson to Charlie Joiner.

Oilers 24 Lions 8

Billy Johnson ripped 52 yards for one touchdown and caught a 27-yard pass from Dan Pastorini for another to give the Houston Oilers their fifth triumph in six games. Johnson raced 52 yards for the score on a punt return for his third such touchdown of the season.

Steelers 16 Packers 13

Roy Gerela's 29-yard field goal with 64 seconds to play lifted Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh over an opportunistic and heavily underdog Green Bay team. The Packer defense held the Pittsburgh offense without a touchdown, with the lone Steeler six-pointer registered on a 94-yard kickoff return by Mike Collier midway through the second period.

Patriots 26 49ers 14

Rookie quarterback Steve Grogan, replacing the injured Jim Plunkett, threw two touchdown passes to give New England for its second straight victory after dropping the first four. Grogan threw scoring passes of 11 yards to Andy Johnson and seven yards to Randy Vataha.

Rodskins 23 Browns 7

Bill Kilmer hit 15 of 37 passes for 205 yards and a pair of touchdowns to hand Cleveland its sixth straight loss of the season. Kilmer hit Mike Thomas with a three yard scoring toss in the second quarter and Larry Brown with an 11-yard touchdown pass with 11 seconds gone in the final quarter.

Cowboys 20 Eagles 17

Tony Fritsch kicked a 42-field goal as time ran out to give Dallas a come-from-behind triumph over Philadelphia. The Cowboys had tied the score at 17-17 with 1:04 left in the game when Roger Staubach passed 21 yards to wide receiver Drew Pearson.

Rams 38 Saints 14

Safety Bill Simpson recovered two fumbles to set up a pair of short first-half touchdowns runs by Cullen Bryant to give the Rams their fifth victory in a row. Bryant's runs were of three and one yards. The Rams also got a touchdown from 1973 Heisman Trophy winner John Capalletti, his first as a pro.

Raiders 25 Chargers 0

Pete Banaszak ran for a pair of touchdowns and Ken Stabler added a 45-yard touchdown pass to Cliff Branch to hand San Diego its sixth straight loss. It was also the Raiders' second shutout against the Chargers in three weeks and the third time San Diego has been blanked this season.

Cardinals 20 Giants 13

(Saturday)

Mel Gray caught a 51-yard touchdown pass from Terry Metcalf on a first quarter half-back option and added a 38-yard scoring reception from Jim Hart late in the final quarter to give St. Louis its second victory over New York in four weeks. Jim Bakken added his ninth and 10th tied goals without a miss this season for the Cards.

Refram-Colbert: Big Guys Now

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — The emotion was showing in the eyes of Dean Refram, a man severely burned over 70 per cent of his body just 15 months ago and now celebrating a victory with champagne.

"We're not the little guys anymore," he said softly, without a smile.

Refram and his partner Jim Colbert—both called "the little guys" of the tournament due to their small stature—had just won the $200,000 National Team Championship at Walt Disney World and split a $40,000 prize, the first money Refram had won since he pocketed $395 in this year's Florida Citrus Open.

The two buddies, who work together at a golf resort near Tampa, combined their talents for 36 birdies in 72 holes of golf without a bogey.

They won the last PGA tournament of the year with a 36-under-par 252, three strokes ahead of two teams tied for second place — Bobby Cole and John Schlee, and Curtis Sifford and Victor Regalado.

The happy Colbert, winner of four pro tournaments but having his troubles in recent months, said, "It was time something good happened to us."

"This really tops off my year," added Colbert, who won $50,111 in "official money," not counting the Disney check, despite having dropped off the tour for four months.

"I couldn't play any better," he added. "The little guys made 36 birdies in four rounds. That's unbelievable. All those big guys making eagles and things and we had to settle for nasty ole birdies."

Colbert and Refram shot 63s in the first two rounds of the best-ball competition and moved into the lead to stay with a 62 in the third round.

Regalado shot an eagle and six birdies Sunday while Sifford added only two birdies.

"But I made only two birdies the first two days and Curtis made 11," Regalado said.

Cole hit most of the birdies in the last round as his team also got a 62.

"One of these years Bobby and I are coming back and we'll both play well and shoot an unbelievable score," Schlee said.

Colbert said Refram, who once had trouble with his putting game, did his share of the work on the greens this tournament.

"He's one of the best swingers, but putting's half the game," Colbert said.

But Colbert said it was a true team effort.

"I guarantee if this had been a individual tournament, we would both have been down to the wire."

Flyers, Sabres Change Tune

By MARTIN LADER
UPI Sports Writer

Along about the end of last May, when they were winding up their Stanley Cup championship, members of the Philadelphia Flyers and Buffalo Sabres were complaining about the length of the season.

Apparently it was all talk. From the way each team has started off the new campaign, neither has any intention of quitting until the last puck is dropped, even if the next National Hockey League playoffs should extend till July.

The Flyers and Sabres, hoping for a repeat matchup in the finals, both are off to their best starts ever. Philadelphia, although playing without Bernie Parent in goal for the first few weeks, stretched its record to 6-1-2 by routing the New York Rangers, 7-2, Sunday night, while unbeaten Buffalo ran up its eighth consecutive success by a surprisingly close 3-2 margin over the California Golden Seals.

At the other end of the spectrum, the NHL had its number of winless teams reduced to one as the Washington Capitals surprised the Black Hawks, 7-5, in Chicago. However, Detroit suffered its seventh loss against three ties by dropping a 7-3 decision at Boston.

In the only other game, the Los Angeles Kings handed the Minnesota North Stars their seventh loss in eight games, 4-2.

Flyers 7, Rangers 2

The line of Bill Barber-Bobby Clarke-Reg Leach accounted for 11 points, with Barber notching the second hat trick of his career. Steve Vickers scored both goals on tip-ins for the Rangers, who have been outscored 23-4 while losing their last three games. By winning, Philadelphia climbed back into first place in the Patrick Division, one point ahead of the idle Islanders.

Sabres 3, Seals 2

Jacques Richard scored his fifth goal of the season at 9:51 to provide Buffalo with its margin of victory after Bob Girard and Al McAdam had tied the score for the Seals earlier in the third period. It was McAdam's sixth goal, and the third while California was shorthanded.

Seals' Coach Jack Evans felt his team could have gotten at least a tie if it wasn't so "awed" by Buffalo's reputation. He explained, "In the first period our players were tight and tense. We have six rookies and it seemed to me they've been hearing about Buffalo and their scoring ability and were awed by it all. It seemed to take them a period to get over it."

Capitals 7, Black Hawks 5

Jonny White scored a hat trick for Washington, including the game-winner at 11:46 of the final period. The Capitals, who had only a tie to show for nine previous outings, managed only 24 shots on Chicago goalie Tony Esposito while the Black Hawks bombarded Ron Low with 53, including 23 in the third period. "We've been frustrated, but our morale was not down," said Washington Coach Milt Schmidt. "Our guys knew that if we kept on playing the way we were and we took advantage of our chances, we would win. That's what happened tonight."

Bruins 7, Red Wings 3

Detroit jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Bill Hogaboam and Mickey Redmond, but the Bruins had things their own way for the rest of the game with Bobby Schumatz scoring three goals and Andre Savard two.

Kings 4, North Stars 2

Lnemates Marcel Dionne each had a goal and two assists as Los Angeles climbed to within one point of first-place Montreal in the Norris Division. Blake Dunlop and Norm Gratton had staked Minnesota to a 2-0 lead.

Andretti Big Winner

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Mario Andretti breezed to the winner's circle in the California Grand Prix for Formula 5000 cars and Bobby Allison captured the International Race of Champions in similar easy fashion Sunday to climax a hectic weekend of racing at Riverside International Raceway.

Andretti, who also finished fourth in the IROC, collected a purse of $19,450 for his Formula 5000 win — one of four events he competed in during the weekend.

"I couldn't believe it," said the smiling Nazareth, Pa., veteran, "I finished all four races."

Andretti was challenged only briefly in the first lap of the 40-lap, 100-mile Formula 5000 as he finished 15.676 seconds over Al Unser, his Viceroy-Lola teammate, who collected $11,950 for second.

The event also marked an end to professional road racing in North America for 1975.

In the third of four IROC races, Allison, piloting a silver Camaro, took the lead on the sixth of 30 laps with a slick pass of polesitter James Hunt of England. Allison maintained up to a four second lead the rest of the way, winning by 1.1 seconds over Al Unser, who was followed by A.J. Foyt.

The IROC is an invitational event that brings together 12 of the world's finest drivers in identically prepared cars. The second IROC heat Saturday was won by Bobby Unser.

Foyt, who finished second in Saturday's heat and third Sunday, now has a commanding six-point lead going into the IROC finale at Daytona Beach, Fla., on Feb. 13.

Only nine drivers from the original 12-man field remain in competition for the $212,000 purse.

By MIKE HUGHES
UPI Sports Editor
MEXICO CITY (UPI) —
The United States won its 116th gold medal of the Pan
American Games Sunday
when the equestrian team brought 13 days of competition to a conclusion by winning the Grand Prix jumping event.

The U.S. quartet of Buddy
Brown, South Salem, N. Y.,
Dennis Murphy, Tuscaloosa,
Ala., and Joe Farris of Vienna,
Pa., finished with 44 1/2 penalty
points to win from Mexico, 46 1/2, and Canada, 76 1/2. Mike Matz of Shillington, Pa., was the fourth member of the team.

It was only fitting that the U.S. should finish with a gold medal, because no team in modern history did as well as the '75 squad which suffered fan abuse the like of which veteran observers of international sport never had experienced before.

The U.S. finished with 116
gold medals, 82 silver and 46 bronze for a total 244, tying the 244 overall awards the 1967 squad won at Winnipeg when the competition was less tough.

Cuba, which had threatened to challenge the U.S. for overall supremacy during the first week when it was winning gold medals in track and field and weightlifting, finished a very very, poor second with a 55-45-30-130 total.

Only once, at Winnipeg, did the U.S. win more gold medals when it took 128 top awards.
At Buenos Aires in 1951, the U.S. won 44 gold for a 95 total;
at Mexico in '55 it was 81-177;
the score at Chicago in '59 was 115-236; it was 106-199 at Sao Paulo in 1963, while four years ago at Cali the team won 89 gold (some charts say 92) for a 196 total.

The riding team, performing before a packed Aztec Stadium audience, led through the first round with 32 penalty points, and despite the Mexican crowd, the U.S. quartet held firm for the gold in the second round.

The colorful closing ceremony, which President Luis Echeverria suddenly decided not to attend—he was booed
by the crowd during the opening ceremony—followed the jumping.

Although the United States team had been subjected to much harassment by Mexican fans throughout the Games, the only real controversy came on the final day when the authorities ordered the soccer final between Mexico and Brazil replayed on Wednesday after both teams were awarded gold medals on Saturday.

The Aztec Stadium lights failed during Saturday's overtime period with the teams tied at 1-1.

The Brazilians, however, refused to consider a replay.
Gen. Piren de Castro, Chef de Mission of the Brazilian delegation, said: "We will not play. We are going home Monday."

"I don't know what will happen, but we have our medals and we're going home."

Apart from the final day soccer hassle, the Games were conducted smoothly with 5,000 athletes and officials from 83 countries in the Western Hemisphere represented.

When the American contingent checked into the Pan American Village, Mexicans were upset because some top swimmers and track and field performers elected to stay home.

The Mexicans, and opponents of the U.S. team, forgot about the depth of performance north of the border.

The U.S. finished top in track and field, swimming, divining, synchronized swimming, wrestling (freestyle and greco roman), gymnastics (women), cycling, tennis, yachting,
shooting, rowing and equestrian sports.

In swimming, track and field, women's gymnastics and tennis it was embarrassingly easy.

The U.S. won more than half the track gold medals with 19;
the swimmers won 27 of 29 events; the shooting team took 14 of 18 gold medals; the lady gymnasts won everything, including the minor medals, while the tennis players scored a 5-0 shutout, as did the synchronized swimming team from the Santa Ana Aquatic Club who were 3-0.

Then there were the two basketball teams, both of them gold medalists, both going undefeated through round robin competition.

America's troubles began in men's basketball four years ago at Cali, Colombia, where the team failed to break into the top six. The controversial failure at the Munich Olympi-cals followed, then came further setbacks against the Russians in international competition and the world
amateur championships.

But 10 weeks of hard work, in Europe and at altitude at home, paid off for coach Marvel Harshman's team. His only regret was that we will not be with the team at Montreal next year.

The UCAL Standings Change by the Hour

KINGSTON The home teams won Saturday's (yes, they did play in the rain) Ulster County Athletic League football games. For a couple, like Red Hook High, it was an easy day. For others, like Onteora, it was a bit more hairy.

The most immediate consequence of it all was to produce the third different holder of the first place label in as many weeks.

Rondout Valley stepped to the head of the class with its 16-6 victory over New Paltz, courtesy of Pine Bush, of course, which knocked off Highland. RVC has played only six games so far, but it is the only squad around with only one defeat.

The win was important to the Ganders because their offensive capability had seemed questionable despite their good record, and because New Paltz was a good team, a "qualified opponent" so to speak. The evidence of the past few weeks now makes it clear that the Ganders can coast to the title . . . as long as it keeps raining.

Coach Lem Atkins of Highland thought he saw another good bunch of mudders at Pine Bush. The Bushmen certainly didn't appear much bothered by the slop and played their game at both ends of the field.

Only one fumble marred the Pine Bush operation. And Dave Kirby, Frank Capadocora and Calvin Gunther showed for the second straight week that Dave Hillriegel isn't the only Bushman who can run.

There is one more team which is coming on as the season progresses, Liberty. The Redskins lost too many early in the season to have any hope of claiming a title, but the way they move the football is going to make them a factor in the race anyway. Liberty ran through Marlboro for 35 points. Coming up on its schedule are contenders Wallkill and Rondout.

Red Hook can still finish with a 6-2-1 record, and that might be enough to take the marbles. The Raiders didn't take any chances by letting it all slip away to Ellenville and won handily as Ron Coon showed a return to form.

Wallkill, however, had no such luck. Going into its game against Onteora, the Panthers already had that one loss their coach had allotted them, and they'd had an extra week of rest to figure out why a supposedly mighty offense was sputtering in recent games. It's still sputtering, as least as far as scoring points is concerned.

The Panthers moved the football twice as far as the Indians did and ended up with half the points. It was the old "any given day" routine, and now OCS has a shot at a .500 season.

Titans, Agenas Win

KINGSTON Glen Eckhoff scored three touchdowns to pace Titans to a 26-0 romp over Atlas, while Agenas came up with a pair of fourth quarter touchdowns to edge Mercurys 13-6 in the Exchange Club Junior Football League.

Eckhoff scored on runs of 20, 1 and 6 yards. He put the Titans on the board in the first quarter with his 20-yard gallop off a double handoff Pete Rundle converted.

In the second quarter, Brian

McCullough ran 35 yards with an intercepted pass, before Eckhoff hit paydirt from the one to put the Titans ahead 20-6 at the half. Eckhoff scored for the third time on a six-yarder in the third quarter. The fourth quarter was scoreless.

Soccer Meeting

Friends of Soccer meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the MJM School gym. A film "World Cup Finals 1966" between England and West Germany will be shown. The public is invited.

Russell Timbrouck's one-yard run gave Mercurys a 6-0 lead over Agenas for three periods, but in the fourth quarter Pat McGowan scored twice on runs of 10 and 8 yards to pull the game out for the Agenas. Vince Mayone passed to Bob Tegar for the extra point.

Nets All Business Against Indiana

By STEVE WILSTEIN
UPI Sports Writer

Overtaken down the stretch of the regular season by Kentucky last year, stunned in the first round of the playoffs by St. Louis, the New York Nets believe they have learned a lesson not to take anybody for granted.

If the lesson needed to be driven home further, it was Saturday night when San Antonio romped to a 20-point victory over the Nets. Sunday night against Indiana, the Nets were all business as they handed the Pacers their first loss of the season, 118-111.

"We won the championship two years but we've got to prove ourselves all over again," said Nets captain Julius Erving. "Last year we might've taken some teams for granted, let up a little when we should've been hearing down. We've got to keep the pressure up all the time now. There's no pushovers any more."

Indiana was picked by some observers to finish last in the ABA West this season while recovering from the loss of George McGinnis, last year's co-MVP with Erving who jumped to the NBA. But Indiana, on the strength of Bill Knight's 36 and 40-point performances and some aggressive play by the other Pacers, came in against the Nets with a 2-0 record, including a victory Saturday night over Kentucky.

Knight continued his torrid shooting against the Nets, scoring 13 points in the first quarter to give the Pacers a 31-30 lead after they had led by as many as eight points earlier, and New York coach Kevin Loughery lectured his troops about hustle, defense and rebounding.

The Nets couldn't stop Knight, but they managed to slow down the rest of the Pacers enough to take a 57-55 halftime lead, then turned the game around in the third period. Tim Bassett came off the bench to add muscle with eight minutes left in the third and Indiana up 67-66. He hauled down six rebounds, scored 10 points and combined with John Williamson to score 21 of the fast-breaking Nets' next 28 points as they built up a 94-84 lead entering the final quarter.

Elsewhere in the ABA, St. Louis ripped San Diego 101-85 and Kentucky whipped Virginia 130-112.

In the NBA, Pete Maravich took the New York Knicks' John Gianelli by surprise, then gift-wrapped the New Orleans Jazz's double overtime 125-114 victory with superb clutch shooting.

Maravich's steal of the Knicks' inbounds pass with 26 seconds left in regulation play and his basket that followed helped put the game into overtime.

But his heroics weren't over yet. He forced a second overtime by hitting two consecutive shots and then scored eight points to nail down the Jazz win. Maravich, who had 45 points for the night, tied the game at the end of regulation play, 97-97. Earl Monroe was the Knicks' leading scorer with 36 points. Walt Frazier had 27 and Spencer Haywood 17.

Guistino's, Wells Roll

KINGSTON Outscored 30-19 in the fourth quarter, Guistino's Market managed to eke out a 87-86 victory over Downs Street Driving in the YMCA "B" Basketball League. Wells Wolfpack grounded Olive Cablevision, 63-39.

John Kuhn paced Downs Street with 33 points. Bruce Jerry added 16 and Steve Greenburgh hauled in 10 rebounds. Corey Schoonmaker had 33 for Guistino's, Chris

Your Astrograph

For Tuesday, Oct. 28, 1975
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your enthusiasm is easily aroused today. Others will find you a fun person to be around. You'll be fortunate through social contacts.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Wait things out today. Time is your ally. Don't settle for less than the best in any important dealings.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The good news you've hoped for is on the way, but you must keep channels of communication.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your material prospects are far above average today. If you play your cards right you should benefit businesswise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your opinion on an important issue will be sought by others. If you have any special points to make, now's the time to do it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Two good deeds that you did in the past are about to bear fruit. The rewards from one of them will be surprisingly large.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone in a key position to help you with an important matter will look upon your requests with favor today. Seek him out now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions with a direct affect upon your work or career are more beneficial at this time than you may realize. Be alert for opportunity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be able to spot possibilities today that others will overlook. Back your judgment with action.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will eventually profit from something you'll do today where you put interests of those you love before your own.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll have the opportunity today to turn a difficult situation to your advantage without upsetting anyone else involved.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Rewards you're not yet aware of will come from service performed today. Be extra persistent. Finish whatever you start.

Your Birthday

Oct. 28, 1975

There will be a rise in prestige and status for you this coming year that will come about quite unexpectedly. Lady Luck will help arrange it.

Entry Finesse Saves Overbid

By Oswald & James Jacoby
 Jim: "It might be a good idea to show some examples of the entry finesse our Maine reader asks about."

Jim: "It is interesting to note that if West had played his ten of diamonds on South's five spot, the extra entry to dummy would have been killed."

Oswald: "Here is a simple example. South's bidding can best be explained by stating that he was an important expert trying to show off for some slow-playing tyros."

Jim: "Seven notrump was a definite overbid, yet if North held some extra values such as four hearts to the queen-jack there would be thirteen tricks available if diamonds broke."

Oswald: "Needless to say, the dummy was a disappointment. Still, there was one slim chance and South took it. At trick two he led his five of diamonds and finessed dummy's seven. When it held he finessed a spade, entered dummy with the ace of diamonds, discarded his two, little spades on the ace-king of clubs, finessed again and made his grand slam."
